Crissy Field Information

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Crissy Field is a public national park, so please be respectful of the site and please be aware that you will be sharing this area with other people. Please be considerate of this fact and act accordingly.

- You will be launching your boards off of the beach at Crissy Field. This is a public beach so please be courteous to other park users.
- There are public bathrooms at Crissy Field, please clean up after yourself and help keep these facilities clean.
- Please use the garbage cans that are situated along the beach and throughout the boat storage area.
- Please adhere to all instructions given by the designated beach master.
- The sprinklers will be on in the evening in order to water the grass. Any clothing or wetsuits left out overnight may get wet.

THE HISTORY

Crissy Fields was originally a rich salt marsh and gathering ground for native people, Crissy Field was later the landing site of Spanish explorers and Russian, English and Boston traders. In 1915, the Panama Pacific International Exposition was held here, and shortly after, the area became one of the country's foremost military airfields and part of a U.S. army post. With generous community support, Crissy Field has been transformed into a spectacular national parkland. The 100-acre site is included within the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and the Presidio of San Francisco. Along with the entire Presidio, it was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1962.

As part of the site restoration effort in 1998-2000, individuals and groups from schools, corporations and civic organizations put in more than 100,000 native plants to help restore natural systems at Crissy Field. Community volunteers continue to play an important role in sustaining long-term stewardship of this national parkland.
